WHAT'S YOUR PLANT TYPE?™

What kind of a questions is that? We're sure you've never heard of it before. Well, it's part of our new image. Manhattan Plant Experts, Inc. have taken our brand to the next level. Along with the consciousness raising of the "Green Movement" and everything that goes with it, we have stepped up to the plate and taken our relationship with nature to the next level. We ask, "Why not make friends with plants? Why not give your favorite plants a name? Why not name even your not so favorite plants? They've got rights too!

So What's Your Plant Type? Are you a bubbly, easy going receptionist who keeps the office running with Swiss Clock precision? You might be a Bromeliad Type. On the other hand, you could be the prickly boss and your workers cover at the very sight of you. It's been said, though, that it is better to be feared than loved and your employees do respect your hard work. While all your employees sneak out the back entrance to avoid you at five, the column cactus will be your pal.

On April 28, 2008, between 12:30 and 3:30pm, Manhattan Plant Experts will be featured for its Living Wall Display along with Dr. Alan Darlington at a School Greening and Educational Project at the Merrick Academy School in Queens. The Living Wall's a vertical hypnotic plant wall, which filters the contaminants in the air from the room through the plant roots and pushes out clean air. Come experience this sensation. For more information about the living wall, visit <http://www.manhattanplant.com>.

A SHOW OF APPRECIATION FOR YOUR LOYALTY TO US!

This is our First Edition Newsletter and it's an opportunity to say THANK YOU! Whether you've been with us for over a decade or only since last week, it's our pleasure to serve you. Our new brand is all about AWARENESS – awareness of our surroundings, our environment, our living partners on this planet, and our customers and friends.

Our old logo was designed using abstract art. For the time, it served its purpose. We have a bigger purpose these days, and our new logo embodies the spirit of our new vision for our company

It is our new mission to serve you better with better quality products and listen even more carefully to you so that we meet your needs faster and better.
